SPORTSMEN PARK, ST. LOUIS, Oct. 9.—The St. Louis Cardinals led the New York Yankees 1 to 0 at the end of the third inning in today's world series game. The Yankees need only one game to clinch the world championship, having won three straight games.

Orsatti led off in the third inning with a scratch two base hit. High bunted and beat out the ball for an infield hit. Orsatti going to third. Frisch then sent a sacrifice fly to center field scoring Orsatti.

ST. LOUIS, MO., Oct. 9.—With heavy hearts and only the faint glimmer of hope engendered by an unexpected day of rest, the St. Louis Cardinals face the music of Yankee bats, the clamor of Waite Hoyt's fast ball, the deafening clamor of cowbells and the sound of well-meant encouragement from the stands and bleachers of sportsman's park.

It may be all over before night-fall, this rather sorry world series of 1929.

The New York Yankees chafing under the delay imposed by rain, were eager to have it over. They know they have won another world's championship, to all intents and purposes, already, and they are in no mood to drag out the proceedings. Waite Hoyt, for one, was in a hurry to get back to Brooklyn to study for his examinations for the degree of "licensed mortician, first class," so the Cardinals could expect no favors from him.

St. Louis hopes of escaping a white-washing such as their predecessors, the Pittsburgh Pirates received last year, rested upon the shoulders of Willie Sherdel, the diminutive southpaw who pitched so well in the opening game at New York.

The Cardinals seemed to have perked up a bit during the 24 hour lay-off which followed their disastrous defeat on Sunday, but they still were a sad example of a championship ball club.

Tales of Heroism by Prisoners Revealed as Smoke Leaves Ruins

JUNCTION CITY, Oct. 9.—Both prisoners and guards are praising Andy Kevort, Painesville, Cuyahoga-co, who rushed back into the flaming building at Junction City and rescued "Tiny," his bull terrier and the friend of every man at the prison camp. The dog was given Kevort two months ago by a sister who visited him from California and he quickly won his way into the hearts of all of the men.

Herbie Schneider, serving one to 15 years from Franklin-co on a robbery charge, saved the superintendent of the brick plant more than $200 when he grabbed a roll of bills from the cash box as he made his way out of the smoke-filled office. The money had been signed for by the superintendent and he would have been held responsible. Schneider slept in the office. He is an aide to the superintendent.

Results of the fourth game of the world series will not come to the boys at the brick plant in the usual manner for their radio was destroyed in the fire. Results of the other world series games are

WARDEN WILL PROBE BLAZE

Fifteen Convicts Known To Have Perished In Fire At Junction City Plant.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 9.—Ohio state penitentiary officials today awaited the arrival of Warden P. E. Thomas from Kansas City, where he was attending a convention, before continuing their investigation of the fire which destroyed the brick plant dormitory at Junction City, southeast of here, and cost the lives of 15 prisoners.

Five other prisoners still were reported missing today, and three who were brought to the penitentiary hospital here lay in a critical condition.

The three most critically burned are Harvey Gibson, 24; John Pablock, 23, and Ralph E. Braun, 26. Arthur Frakes, 27, whose condition was reported critical yesterday, showed some improvement today, though hospital attendants said his condition was still "dangerous."

31 IN HOSPITAL

Thirty-one other prisoners were brought to the hospital here. All of them, however, were expected to recover.

In the dormitory were 288 prisoners, of whom 268 were quickly accounted for. Two of the missing five were believed to have been victims. While three, it was believed, might have escaped over the walls.

Although authorities shrugged their shoulders at the task of identifying the 15 recovered bodies, they expressed the belief that three of the bodies "might" be those of John Duncan, colored, Moses Broncho and Ray Cooper.

BODIES CHARRED
All of the bodies were charred, and all 15 were placed in one roughbox—mute evidence of how badly they were burned.

Dentists who had worked on the inmates were unable to assist in the identification inasmuch as the gold and silver fillings had been melted.

Mass funeral services will be held at New Lexington, near Junction City and both Catholic and Protestant rites were planned for each body.

WOMAN HELD; ARRESTED ON CHECK CHARGE

Suspect, Said To Have Passed
Bad Paper on Local Store,
In County Jail.

Mrs. Ethel Richards, 24, who gave her address as Northridge Rd., Columbus, is being held in the county jail here charged with passing a check without funds to the Crist department store.

Monday afternoon she entered Crist's department store and purchased clothing, mostly infants clothes, amounting to about $27 and gave a check on a Huntington, W. Va., bank. Wallace Crist, a member of the firm, called Huntington and found the bank was fictitious. The amount of the check was $55.

FAILS TO TAKE CHECK

After learning her plan had been exposed, Mrs. Richards failed to take the check off the counter and police were summoned to arrest and hold her for further investigation.

Upon questioning it was found her stories did not check and W. E. Crist filed an affidavit against her. With her was a two-year-old child and she said she had a four-months-old baby at home in Columbus.

She was taken to the county jail and the child was placed with Mrs. Carrie Patton, probation officer. Her bond was placed at $500.

CAME IN TAXI

She was riding in a cab belonging to the American Cab Co. of Columbus, but claimed, at Crist's store that her car was parked on S. Court-st and that it bore a West Virginia license. It was found that the car she was riding in was parked in front of the Second National bank on W. Main-st, and was an American Cab Co.'s car, out of Columbus.

The cab driver was questioned and he gave her name as Mrs. Swisher, of Columbus.

Her husband, she claims, is an engineer, and has not supported her or her children since their marriage. In order to make a living she has a private kindergarten of her own in Columbus, she said.

The local police department received a call from the Columbus police headquarters Tuesday to hold Mrs. Swisher for them as she is believed to be the person who passed a bad check in Columbus for $35, under the name of Ethel Linton.

FUNERAL IS HELD FOR FIRE VICTIM

The last sad rites were performed Monday afternoon at the U. E. church at Hallsville, over the remains of Mrs. Ellen Thornton, wife of William Thornton of near Bethel, Ross-co, who was burned to death when fire consumed her five room, one story house. The body was buried at the Hallsville cemetery.

The fire occurred Friday night when a gasoline lamp that she was filling by the light of a kerosene lamp exploded. It is believed the flames from the lamp ignited the fumes from the lamp.

INJURED AT WORK

"SEE OHIO" CLUB IS ORGANIZED IN CITY

A "See Ohio" club has been organized in Circleville. Already it has four members who have made a number of visits to many interesting parts of Ohio, and are planning still further motor trips to every point of real interest in the state.

Their latest motor trip was on Sunday, when they drove to Batavia in Clearmont-co passing through Greenfield, Hillsboro, West Union and Georgetown.

Their return brought them home by way of Chillicothe. The brilliant autumn colors in the woods and fields made scenes of beauty even the most commonplace views. But the country around these towns is rich in hills and streams that are worth driving many more miles to see at this time of year.

Members of this embryonic "See Ohio" club are E. L. Daley, grade supervisor of grade schools, Will Reid, S. G. Rader and Samuel Lundser.

OFFICIAL NEW YORK AROUSE OVER TRAGEDY

Dry Raiders Seeking
Sober of Poisoned Liquor
Slums of City.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Three deaths within 48 hours of poisoned alcohol have brought series of raids on numerous downtown speakeasies and an arrest of Mayor Walker for immediate arrest of the salesmen of the death poisons.

It is the greatest wave of alcohol deaths in the history of the nation's largest city. Once has the number of poisoned alcohol deaths mounted higher in an entire year, and that in 1920 when 38 persons died in a flood of holiday alcohol.

Many other persons are suffering from having consumed poisoned beverages in many stances wood, alcohol—and death list probably will, say city authorities said.

WALKER AROUSED

"I insist that those responsible for poison liquor, the distillers of which amounts to homicide, which is more than a violation of the Volstead act, must be apprehended and prosecuted," Mayor Walker told his police heads.

Immediately 20 detectives went to the lower East Side and raided the estimated 1,000 speakeasies in a mile-and-a-half. Thirteen persons were arrested and liquor stocks confiscated. Samples were sent to city labs for testing.

Other squads will continue raids through the East Side, where most of the speakeasies have been reported. Police authorities will also raid and search Commissioner James M. Glavin has ordered federal agents to investigate.

PROHIBITION BLAMED

Doran was reported to be indulgence in an interior moonshine rather than from alcohol.

However 11 of the deaths in past two days were attributed to wood-alcoholic poisoning, Charles Norris, chief medical examiner, blamed prohibition the deaths.

Yankee Youngsters Hope to Get Into Series

ROOKIES ASK THEIR CHANCE TO GAIN FAME

Veteran Stars Have Obtained All of Games' Glory By Exceptional Work.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 9.—The youngsters among the New York Yankees looked forward eagerly to today's game, doubly bent upon making the most of what may be their last chance to star against the Cardinals in 1928.

The gate to baseball's hall of fame was wide open for the less-famous Yankee players before the series started, but once the series got under way, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig have blocked the passage with their ponderous frames.

About the only place to find the names of Cerdic Durst, Ben Paschal, Benny Bengough, Gene Robertson and Leo Durocher these days is in the box score.

Henry Johnson, the Yankees' young right-handed pitcher, who had visions of pitching a game against the Cardinals, or at least getting into the series as a relief pitcher, has seen the world series thus far from the "bull pen." Johnson's last chance to get in the series virtually slipped away when Tom Zachary pitched the Yankees to victory in the third game. It was Johnson's great pitching against the Philadelphia Athletics that enabled the Yankees to win the American league pennant and he had hoped to share a similar fate in the world series.

PRASED AND BLAMED
Durst, alternating in centerfield with Paschal, in place of the injured Earle Combs, has had a little taste of acclaim and criticism. Facing Alexander in the second game, Durst singled twice and batted a 1,000 per cent batting average when he was relieved by Paschal after Mitchell, a south-paw, replaced Alexander. In the third game, Durst charged bottom's line drive to center and permitted the Cardinals to get away to a two-run lead when the ball rolled to the center field wall for a triple. Durst was really not to blame because a glaring sun caused him to lose sight of the ball, but if the Yankees had lost Durst undoubtedly would have been the goat of the game.

Paschal has had little chance to start out, but delivered a timely hit in the second game with the bases filled. Paschal had handled five chances without an error, none of them hard.

Praise for Benny Bengough who has turned in three perfect games behind the bat for the Yankees, has been confined mostly to the three Yankee pitchers. Hoyt, Phipps and Zachary, who have benefited from his smart work. Bengough has been digging wild pitches out of the dirt, steadying Phipps and Zachary when they were in danger, directing defensive plays, and generally making himself one of the most useful players in the series, if one of the least conspicuous.

DUROCHER CONFIDENT
Leo Durocher, the twenty-one year old rookie, who is playing his first full season with the Yankees, knows he can make good in his first world series if he is called on. Durocher has finished all three games for Tony Lazzeri, who rests his injured shoulder when the Yankees get ahead, but has handled only two chances, both perfectly. In his only appearance at bat, Durocher struck out.

Durocher is known around the American league as the freshest rookie in baseball. The Yankees still talk about when he took Ty Cobb for a ride in one of the early Athletic-Yankee series.

Although admitting he would give almost anything to get into a full game, Durocher had rather see Koenig and Lazzeri around second, because "they're the best keystone combination in baseball."

Gene Robertson, the midjet third baseman, has one stellar play to his credit—a sensational diving stop of a scorching drive in the second game. Robertson stopped the ball by diving full length to his right and then regained his feet in time to make a perfect throw. He made an error in the third game, but it was on a hard play. In six times at bat, he has made one hit.

Another Yankee pitcher who helped keep the Yankees in front during the last days of the American league pennant who may not see action in the series, is Fred Heinebach, the former Athletics southpaw, brought up from St. Paul near the end of the season.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The New York Yankees professional football team, will open their home season on Sunday at the Yankee stadium against Benny Friedman's Detroit Wolverine eleven.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 9.—There will be no rest for Wisconsin university's Badgers this week, although it was felt that the men deserve it for their defeat of Notre Dame last Saturday. The A and B squads will meet Cornell college and North Dakota Aggies on Saturday, in what are expected to be easy games.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 9.—Coach Spears is trying this week to strengthen the Minnesota defense for the game with Purdue here Saturday. The team's defense appeared weak in last Saturday's game against Creighton.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 9.—Coach Robert Zuppke is not satisfied with the way his Illini griders are performing in practice and has expressed displeasure at the way they played against Bradley last week. This week he is sifting his reserves in an attempt to discover some youngster who can add power to his first string eleven.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 9.—Purdue's backfielders are getting some rough treatment from Coach Jimmy Phelan this week because Phelan did not like their ragged performance last Saturday against DePauw. Hard scrimmage has been substituted for practice in preparation for the tilt with Minnesota.

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—Having shown the world they are not as weak as they had been pictured, Coach Stagg's Chicago university football team are displaying more confidence in this week's practice for the Iowa game Saturday. They are not, however, too confident because of their easy win over Wyoming.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 9.—Coach Pat Page does not believe the victory of Ohio Wesleyan over Michigan last week necessarily indicated that the Wolverines are weak and is drilling his Indiana university men hard for their clash with Michigan at Ann Arbor Saturday. He is giving special attention to tackling practice this week.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 9.—Tackling and recovery of fumbles are being stressed at Notre Dame university's football camps as the Irish prepare for their intercollegiate clash with the Navy at Chicago, Saturday. Fumbles had much to do with Notre Dame's loss to Wisconsin last week and Coach Rockne does not intend to have any such misplays in the game with the midgies.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 9.—Confident that he has one of the Big Ten's most powerful football machines, Coach Wilce is pointing his men for their first conference tilt with Northwestern Saturday at Evanston. Mistakes made in last week's game with Wittenberg were reviewed yesterday and new plays were given out.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 9.—Changes in the lineup of Northwestern university's football team were threatened today as Coach Hanley accused some of the line-men of loafing in last week's game. Northwestern meets Ohio Saturday.

CHICAGO SERIES TO BE DECIDED TODAY

White Sox Come From Behind To Tie Cubs and Hope To Win City Battle.

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—The American league White Sox and National league Cubs, who also were confident they would win the series.

The Sox have been fighting an uphill battle ever since the series opened and for several days few fans were willing to grant them even a fighting chance to win.

All this has changed, however, and today the American leaguers were figured to have at least an even chance to win the final.

Following up their 2 to 0 shut-out, over the Cubs, Sunday, the pale hose showed added strength yesterday and smothered the Cubs with a deluge of basehits to win, 7 to 1. They scored all their runs in the first three innings and then took it easy for the remainder of the game.

OHIO HARRIERS ARE IN DAILY WORKOUTS

ATHENS, Oct. 9.—Ohio university harriers by daily workouts on the local course, which is considered by many as the most ideal cross-country course in the Buckeye conference, are gradually shaping into condition for the first meet of the season against Denison here on Homecoming Day, Oct. 20.

Coach Bill Herbert has a smile on his face every day as he watches them jog over the hills, for he has what he thinks is Ohio's greatest cross-country squad. In other years the sport seldom attracted much attention here and few candidates ever tried out for the team, but this year Herbert has 14 men, three of whom are veterans.

Captain Harold Pyle, of Youngstown, and Jimmy Schaal, of Logan, both veterans, have been rounding into shape rapidly within the last few days, and Harold Wiegand, of Mansfield, a member of the squad two years ago, has also been showing marked improvement. Among the sophomore applicants who have been doing well are Logan Ery, of Athens and Harold Fowler, of Hamilton.

VITS PARADE FOR PERSHING

British, French War Heroes Also Review Procession of Legionnaires.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 9.—Discussion among delegates to the National American Legion convention here today was ripe over the bitter fight expected tomorrow concerning adoption of a resolution which Col. William Mitchell has indicated he will introduce for the creation of a separate air service department.

Although no session of the convention was held today one of the features of the week's program, a parade of 60,000 veterans, was to be held. Places for Gen. John J. Pershing, Field Marshal Lord Allenby and Major George Scapini, blind French war hero, were reserved in the reviewing stand.

The words of Gen. Pershing, "We stand for maintenance of peace with honor," delivered before the convention yesterday, contrasted with the war display given last night for the benefit of the visitors.

During yesterday's sessions both Gen. Pershing and Lord Allenby

Acidity

The common cause of digestive difficulties is excess acid. Soda cannot alter this condition, and it burns the stomach. Something that will neutralize the acidity is the sensible thing to take. That's why physicians tell the public to use Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this delightful preparation can neutralize many times its volume in acid. It acts instantly; relief is quick and very apparent. All gas is dispelled, all sourness is soon gone; the whole system is sweetened. Do try this perfect anti-acid, and remember it is just as good for children, too, and pleasant to take. MACHINIST GLAD HE DID NOT GIVE UP; IS WELL AGAIN

Konjola Scores Triumph After Sufferer Had Abandoned All Hope of Recovery.

MR. ANDREW MARTIN

For those who are tempted to believe that there is no relief from stubborn ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, or from the grasp of rheumatism, neuritis or nervousness, there is hope in the experience of Mr. Andrew Martin, machinist, 1701 Hughes street, Cincinnati. Telling his splendid experience with this new medicine, Mr. Martin said:

"How glad I am that I did not give up, when everything failed to relieve me from indigestion and nervousness that ended in almost a complete breakdown. I was almost without hope, when Konjola was urged. I was hardly able to work as a machinist. I read of Konjola's wonderful achievements, but thought I was beyond aid. However, I took the chance. Three bottles practically banished all my ailments, and I am on the fourth bottle now, feeling stronger and better every day. My friends marvel at the change that has come over me. I work at my machine 8 1/2 hours a day, and am not tired. As a medicine Konjola stands alone; it has no rival."

Konjola is sold in Circleville at Mykranz Pharmacy, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

praised the signing of the Kellogg peace pact in Paris, and both spoke of the necessity of further preparation against future wars. Lord Allenby called the Kellogg pact the greatest modern move toward peace and said that "If America and Great Britain stand together nothing in the world can touch them."

Russian Fitch Coats Contend for Favor in Evening Wear

By FRANCES PACET NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(UP)—Russian fitch presents an interesting contender for favor during the coming season, when styled in evening coats on slender lines, where the perfect matching of the skins is an important quality.

This soft fur in its mingled shades of clear, light yellow and deep brown appears in formal coats which follow slender silhouette lines and usually have collars of simple turnback styling, not very large.

In the collections of important Fifth-ave., retailers, particular attention is drawn to coats of this character. The point is made that they are equally appropriate for formal afternoon wear, and as evening wraps with a decidedly different color treatment.

Whether coats of this type will substantially alter the dominance of ermine in evening fashions remains to be seen. Certainly they have the element of comparative newness, appealing especially to the woman whose wardrobe includes several luxury fur wraps.

While these coats create a different impression from models in ermine, caused by the difference in length, of the hair, they are actually slim in contour, for skins are arranged in vertical working and because of their marking a slender striped impression is produced.

One feels that it is the handling of furs, rather than the furs themselves which are of paramount interest this season. The dressmaker's touch remains the dominant note, skins being treated after the manner of fabrics. There are nice little distinctions in the season's better grade fur coat which make for individuality.

LOCAL REASONS FOR VOTING

There are many reasons for voting here in Circleville. It is not merely necessary to choose competent and qualified presidents, congressmen, governors and legislators, but our people need to form the voting habit for the benefit of their home towns.

The total vote of a town in proportion to its population gives some idea of what kind of a town it is. If the vote is always light, the changes are that things go poorly in that town. The little use of the ballot indicates a slack citizenship, which will make itself felt in many ways.

A town that gets out a good vote shows that it has civic spirit. Its citizens would be apt to look after their municipal affairs, and see that taxes are reasonable, and that modern advantages are provided. The town gets out a large vote looks to people who hear the returns like a progressive and advancing one.

SCHOOL, GO SLOW!

The above is the warning sign that meets the motorist's eye in thousands of cities and towns. There is good reason for it. The children, come tearing out of school, full of enthusiasm as they resume their play. They are so running over with high spirits, that it is hard for them to look up and down the street as they cross.

Many communities place police officers near the schoolhouses at the opening and closing of school, and sometimes a patrol of school boys is appointed to warn the motorists. Such measures are highly desirable. Yet if the automobile drivers were cautious and considerate, no such precaution would be necessary. They would see of themselves the necessity for the utmost care. The life of every little child should be precious in the sight of the motorist. It will only take him a few seconds to slow down when he sees the school sign. How much better than to run over some helpless child and bring anxiety or grief to its family!

TOO EASILY INFLUENCED
A man who has had a long experience as a judge, and has seen much of humanity's seamy side, recently gave this opinion as to one cause that gets a great many people into trouble.

He began by talking about divorces. While there are always some prominent people figuring in the divorce courts, he remarked, the majority of them are ordinary and rather obscure people, many of whom are of weak mentality and unfit to marry anyway. They were too easily influenced into marriage. Someone came along who wanted to marry them, and they did so without any thought. Then they found they had gotten into some difficult situation they had not dreamed of, and they came begging for release.

The same with criminals, he said. The majority of them are young fellows of weak mentality. They are influenced by those who have daring and desperate natures, and they set out themselves on deeds of crime.

Similarly with many people who suffer from poverty. They have no independence of character. If their neighbors have certain things, they have to have them, whether they can afford it or not. As a result they never have any money, they are always in debt, and are always having to be helped.

If people are going to keep out of matrimonial troubles, out of poverty, or out of jail they must have a certain resolution of character. They must be independent, enough not to yield when someone suggests undesirable conduct.

We have too many yes-men, and yes-women, folks who do whatever someone tells them. Obsolete people make a good deal of trouble, but after seeing all the troubles that the weak-willed people bring on the community, obsolete often appears like a good

THE TEST

Broadway Love
by Thomas Edgefow

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

JANET WILDE is the young and pretty daughter of Fenimore Wilde, one of Broadway's favorite actors. His son Frank is an idler and like his father, a spendthrift. The girl has a hard time mothering them both. On the eve of a great opening night for her father, Janet accepts the proposal of Gordon Pryor, a young but impetuous actor. In a restaurant she meets a young musician, Leonard Quigg, who attracts her. Janet's father dies after a brilliant performance, leaving her and her brother almost penniless. Gordon Pryor breaks his engagement and Janet realizes that it was her father's prestige and not love for her that prompted his proposal. The next day she obtains the position of confidential secretary to John Montague, famous theatrical impresario. When she arrives home she finds Leonard Quigg waiting for her. She tells him of her broken engagement and he is about to propose to her when she warns him she wants only his friendship. He leaves, disgusted.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XV.
SO MUCH had happened to Janet during the course of only a few weeks that it was a mental rest to her to settle down in her new job. She found John Montague an interesting employer. She would arrive at the office in the early afternoon, and he would frequently keep her attending to various matters until 8 or 9 o'clock in the evening, when he would permit her to go to her delayed dinner. But she liked it, and became keenly interested in the production end of the theatre.

Christmas came and went, and Janet outwardly ignored its festivities. Inwardly, the girl tried hard to forget former Christmases when Fenimore Wilde had always entertained so lavishly. Of Frank she heard nothing, except a telegram from Florida that greeted her on Christmas morning. She worked on Christmas Eve late, and again on Christmas Day, and it was with a sigh of relief that she realized that the holiday was over.

But on New Year's Eve, John Montague released Janet early. "As you know, Miss Wilde, I never go to other people's houses," he remarked. "Tonight I have to go to dinner. I hate it, but it's a question of business—connected with a real estate deal. Have a good time tonight, and try to turn up here tomorrow without a New Year's Day hangover."

"And as you know, Mr. Montague," Janet smiled, "I don't happen to do that sort of thing."

"Not in this day and age?" he queried grimly. "Old-fashioned, are you?"

"Some call it that," Janet answered. "I wish you a Happy New Year in advance, Mr. Montague."

He got up and shook hands with her, looking at her in a curious way. "I have an idea that this is going to be a very eventful year for you," he said with deliberate emphasis. "Yes, I feel quite certain of that."

Janet dined at home, and afterwards took the Critic for a long walk.

"That's your New Year's treat," she told him, when she returned to her lonely apartment. "You and I will have to see the New Year in alone—and I wish I didn't feel quite so lonely. Critic."

She knelt down on the floor, while the trolley snuggled against her.

How to Play BRIDGE

Series 1928-29 by Wynne Ferguson

Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright 1928, by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 2

One of my correspondents has asked for more light on the difficult question of denials of partner's suit bids.

As a general rule, deny partner's suit if you have one, two or none of the suit. This rule, of course, should be qualified in two respects: First, that second hand has passed. If second hand has bid, you can deny partner's suit by passing, so there is no necessity for a take-out. Second, the hand should contain at least a trick or trick and a half to justify a take-out in denial of partner's suit.

For example: Dealer bids one heart and second hand passes. What would you do with the following hands?

Hand No. 1
Hearts—7
Clubs—A, J, 7, 2
Diamonds—J, 7, 4, 3
Spades—Q, 7, 6, 2

Hand No. 2
Hearts—5, 2
Clubs—Q, J, 10, 5, 3
Diamonds—K, 5
Spades—K, 7, 3, 2

Hand No. 3
Hearts—6
Clubs—J, 7, 6, 3, 2
Diamonds—10, 7, 5, 3
Spades—J, 7, 5

With Hand No. 1, you should bid one no trump. The bid of one no trump over a major suit acts as a denial of the suit and should be so understood by partner.

With Hand No. 2, you should bid two clubs. The bid of a minor suit over a major suit acts as a denial of the suit. In this hand you have the possibility of three tricks in clubs and a half trick in spades; therefore the denial is sound.

With Hand No. 3, you should pass. There is not a semblance of a trick in the hand, and to bid under such conditions, even in the laudable desire to warn partner, will only get you into trouble. Your partner is very apt to infer tricks in your hand and he is justified in doing so. If they aren't there and he goes on with his bid, any loss that results is your fault, not his.

Therefore, when you hold one, two or none of your partner's suit, don't hesitate to deny his bid provided you have at least a trick in your hand; but with any less strength, pass and hope for the best.

In the preceding article two test hands were given as problems for consideration.

Answer to Problem No. 1

Y
Z

Hearts—none
Clubs—9, 7, 5
Diamonds—Q, 9
Spades—none

Answer to Problem No. 2

Z

Hearts—none
Clubs—K, Q, J
Diamonds—A, 7
Spades—none

Hearts—A, 9, 8
Clubs—none
Diamonds—K, 6
Spades—none

Hearts are trumps and A leads the five of clubs. How can Z so play the hand that he can win the balance of the tricks against any defense?

Solution: This problem is an illustration of the grand coup. Z should trump the club trick, and then lead the king and six of diamonds, winning the third trick in Y's hand with the ace. He now has a tenace in hearts over B and must win the balance of the tricks. Note that if Z doesn't trump his club trick, he must lose one trick as he will be forced to lead trumps up to B's hand. This trumping of a good trick in order to shorten trumps and so obtain a tenace position on the last two tricks is known as the Grand Coup, and is one play that the experts love to brag about when they make it. Study this over and you may be able to make a similar play one of these days and surprise your friends and delight yourself.

Helpmate and Companion A Sketch of Mrs. Alfred E. Smith

By HAILE T. HENDRIX

PROBABLY few men in public or business life have had the undivided interest and help of their wives that has characterized the career of Alfred E. Smith. From the earliest days of their marriage to the present campaign for the highest office in the nation, Mrs. Smith has been at his shoulder ready at all times to aid or suggest in any way that would be of greatest benefit to her husband.

In those early days Katie Dunn was known for her sweet and sympathetic disposition, and a gracious charm and tact which was to stand her in such
